THE MINISTER OF WELFARE (SHRI SITARAM KESRI): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) "There ls no scientific data available about the number of Child Prostitutes in India and its pervasiveness. However, the Government is" very concerned about this phenomenon and feels that the problem of child prostitution is linked to the general problem of prostitution in the society.

(c) The Government of Indi$_a$ has set up a Central Advisory Committee to frame recommendation|p!an of action for both legal and non-legal approaches for the rescue and rehabilitation of child prostitutes. The recommendations of thei Committee hav$_e$ been sent *o the concerned Central Ministries/Departments and to the State Governments for taking appropriate action.

Many of the State Govennments h^{a}ve set up State Advisory Committees within their jurisdiction for suggesting measures for th© care protection, treatment and rehabilitation of the Young victims rescued from brothel houses.

The Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956 supplemented by the Indian Penal Code prohibits trafficking in human beings, including children. Higher penalties, punishments (have been prescribed m cases relating to the prostitution of a child or a minor, under the Act. Th^e Juveniles Justice Act, 1986 provides for the care protection, treatment and rehabilitation of neglected or delinquent juveniles including girls.

The enforcement of the Acts is the responsibility of the State Governments. The Central Government have issued instructions from time to time to all States/Un'on Territories for strict implementation Of tbe Act. Meetings with DGPs of all the States have been held in this regard.

The Government has an extensive network of Short Stay Home set up under the Juvenile Justice Act for protection and rehabilitation of ths vict'ms The serv'ces of qualified doctors, psychiatrists are available in the Short Stny Homes. These services are available; on part time ba'is in the Homes under Juvenile Justice Act.

A National Plan of Action for the SAARC Decade (1991—2000 AD) of the girl child focussing on survival, pro-tect'on and development of the girl child has been formulated. A special set of i interventions for adolescent girls has been institutionalised through ths ICDS infrastructure. Programmes of action and advocacy are being implemented to project positive images of girl children so as to bring about changes in socistal attitudes towards them.
